Plan Nine to reopen St. Louis Mills Skatepark

Free skate day on June 21 to celebrate

Plan Nine will open a skatepark and retail location at St. Louis Mills on Friday, June 19. Plan Nine Skatepark will offer over 30,000 square feet of skatepark, party rooms, observation platforms, vending and retail space. In honor of National Go Skate Day and to celebrate its opening, Plan Nine Skatepark will host a free skate day on Sunday, June 21.

“This is a natural extension of our shops which are already the leading skate shops in the metro area. This will give us a chance to host skate and BMX events, contests and summer camps in a state-of-the-art facility to further encourage and promote the sport,” said Casey Otto, Plan Nine owner and operator.

Plan Nine Skatepark at St. Louis Mills is Plan Nine’s third retail location in the St. Louis area. Plan Nine, a regional skateboard and BMX retail chain, was part of the design and build team of the skatepark that originally opened at St. Louis Mills in November 2003.

“Plan Nine’s addition is just in time for summer fun and back-to-school shopping,” said Debbie Milligan-Steinmeyer, director of marketing and business development for St. Louis Mills. “St. Louis Mills is pleased to offer Plan Nine to this community.”
